"Do not abandon yourselves to despair. We are the Easter people and hal-lelujah is our song." - Pope John Paul II

Did you know:

The Apostles Creed

It is called of the Apostles Creed because it is considered as the faithful summary of the faith of the apostles.

Origin: Throughout the middle ages, it was believed that on the day of Pentecost, the Apostles while still under the direct inspiration of the Holy Spirit, composed our current creed among them. Each of the apostles contributed with one of the twelve articles. Furthermore, it is believed that they, for many just reasons, decided that this rule of faith should be called the Symbol; this Greek word had two meanings which are: the indicium, that is, a sign or password by which Christians could recognize each other, and collatio, that is, an offering composed of separate contributions.

There is a theory that a primitive Creed had been handed over to the Christian community of Rome, either by Saint Peter and Saint Paul themselves or by their immediate successors, and that in the course of time it spread throughout the world.

Sabía Usted Que:

Credo de los Apóstoles

Es llamado de los apóstoles por que es considerado con justicia como el resumen fiel de la fe de los apóstoles.

Origen: A lo largo de la edad media, se creía que el día de Pentecostés los Apóstoles, mientras estaban todavía bajo la inspiración directa del Espíritu santo, compusieron nuestro credo actual entre ellos. Cada uno de los apóstoles contribuyó con uno de los doce artículos. Además se cree que ellos por muchas razones justas decidieron que esta regla de fe debería ser llamada el Símbolo; esta palabra griega tenía dos derivaciones que son: el indicium, es decir, una señal o contraseña mediante la cual los cristianos podrían reconocerse mutuamente, y collatio, es decir, una ofrenda compuesta por contribuciones separadas.

Hay una teoría de que un Credo primitivo había sido entregado a la comunidad cristiana de Roma, ya sea por San Pedro y San Pablo mismos o por sus sucesores inmediatos, y que en el transcurso del tiempo se extendió por todo el mundo.
